Liability Coverage

Liability for LTL shipments vary on a carrier-by-carrier basis, and the maximum liability can be up to $25 per pound for new goods, but can be subject to lower amounts depending on the carrier, packaging, freight class or other conditions.

VS

Cargo Insurance

Freight Insurance is a third party coverage beyond the standard carrier liability. For as little as $30.00 you can fully insure your shipment.

Freight ERRORS

TRAINING 101

1. Freight Class

- a. NMFTA updates the freight class and codes regularly. Using the correct class and NMFC can be the most difficult part of shipping and very expensive if done incorrectly.

2. Limited Access

- a. This fee will be charged by the freight carrier for the following locations: construction sites, fairs and carnivals, military bases/installations, mine sites, prisons, schools or universities, churches, storage facilities, piers, airports, farm or ranches, campgrounds, zoos, reservations, government facilities, hotels/motels, casinos or resorts, hospitals, doctor's offices, small strip malls, rural areas, or any location that requires a smaller or specialized truck, etc.

3. Liability Coverage vs Cargo Insurance

- a. Assuming that the shipment is fully covered is common for new shippers. When booking shipments, it is essential to look at the liability coverage to make sure you are aware of the maximum value your shipment is covered. If you need additional coverage, make sure to book cargo insurance for the full invoice value, including shipping charges.

4. Additional Charges

- a. Whoever arranges the freight is responsible for any additional services. It is imperative you explain this to your vendor or customer what is included with the shipment. If they need a lift gate, inside delivery, sort & seg, lumber services, or any other services, make sure it is included in your quote so that you are not surprised by a higher invoice.

5. Expectations

- a. Understanding the service you are using and the carrier's reliability is important in setting proper expectations for your company and your customer. With some of the less expensive carriers, you should expect more delays in transit.

6. Claims

- a. Concealed Damage
- b. Customer Responsibility
